Hi Elena,

When we brought you on, the goal was pretty simple: better videos that actually drove sales. We ended up getting way more than an editor.

You had real creative instincts, from the music you picked to how you cut everything together. The videos felt fresh and varied, and we could use them all year round instead of burning through them in one campaign.

You also never just executed what we handed you. You came to us with ideas, sometimes about things that had nothing to do with editing. I still remember your suggestions for improving our product page. You clearly cared about how we were doing as a whole, and that's rare.

And honestly, you were just easy to work with. That counts for a lot.

Anyone would be lucky to work with you.

Best,
Kind regards
Nasser
